

Hi, I'm Crawford Loritts with a Legacy Moment.

I must confess; I enjoy checking off the items on my to-do list. It gives me a great sense of satisfaction when I finish what I intended to do. I know you're probably like that, too. Likewise, I get a bit frustrated when there is no closure. As the old say goes, "life is full of surprises." There are distractions, emergencies, occasional interruptions, and because we're human and really not ultimately in control, we don't always finish what we intended to do.

God always finishes what He starts. He's not like us. He's not bound by surprises. He's not held up because things didn't work out the way He intended for them to do.

I love Philippians chapter 1, verse 6. "For I am confident of this very thing, that He who began a good work in you will perfect it until the day of Christ Jesus." It's almost as if the writer says, "Hey, look. Chill out." If God started this thing, He's responsible for it.

It's not that you don't do your part, and it's not that you're not involved, but if God started it, He's going to see it through. The pressure is on God, and our confidence is in Him, "being confident of this very thing." God's work endures. It is marked by His eternal purposes. It endures. There's nothing you can do to hinder it. There's nothing that you can do to stop it. There's nothing that you can do to interrupt it. If God starts it, it will endure until the day of Jesus Christ. He began it, He nurtures it, and He will bring it to completion.

Here's what I want you to remember today. Pray about your assignment and make sure that it lines up with God's will. Then confidently pursue what He places on your heart to do. He will finish the job.
